VII. Electronic Devices in Classes and Labs

Cell phones must be turned OFF or put on SILENT ( VIBRATE) during class. You may be allowed to put on vibrate during class, you are expected to be an important professional but you must not use before class begins. Electronic entertainment devices are to be turned off and adaptor chargers removed. Do not text during class. Abuse of technology may lead to a request to leave class and/or disciplinary action. So electronic devices during exams will be considered possible methods of cheating so do not take out or use any kind of electronic device during exams.

Cell phones must be on vibrate during class so campus emergency alerts can be received by the class as a whole. Students on your cell phone during class and most especially during exams are engaged or emergency not contact route. The website <http://www.net.edu/campus/policies> emergency not contact system. Cell phones must be put away and out of sight do not leave class to answer your phone.

VIII. Honor Code

Those of you going to Vet School will operate under an honor code system most likely. Therefore I would like to introduce the principle here. Basically that means cheating in any form or fashion is not tolerated. It is up to you to be responsible and honest enough to assure that you and your fellow classmates are not cheating on any assignments or exams. Respect of fellow students, teachers, guests, time, materials, and personal items will be expected. You should all know right from wrong and be responsible enough to remain honest and courteous. If you are caught or questioned the appropriate administrative faculty members will be notified immediately.
