Graduate students and some undergraduates may not use S/U courses to meet program requirements. Please see catalog for more details.

Revised: 08/2014

“SATISFACTORY/UNSATISFACTORY” (S/U) “PASS/FAIL” – Taking a class on an S/U basis, you will receive a passing grade “S” or a failing grade of “U”. Normally a C- or better constitutes an “S”. When receiving an “S” you will receive credit hours for the class, but no grade points; your GPA will not be affected. Should you receive a “U”, you will not receive credit hours or grade points, your GPA will not be affected. However, the hours will count toward attempted hours. A grade of “S” cannot be repeated unless the course is normally graded S/U. This option is not recommended for Computer Science majors.

This option may not be available depending upon class and by major, you should check the catalog or check with your advisor whether or not this can be done.

Only a maximum of 18 credits per degree can be taken as a pass/fail.
